

Wyoming Counseling Association
and
National Association of Social Workers-WY

Joint Annual Conference

“Trauma-Informed Care Across the Lifespan”

September 26-28, 2019

Red Lion Hotel & Conference Center

Cheyenne, WY

Co-Sponsored by:

National Association of Social Workers

Welcome to the JOINT ANNUAL STATE CONFERENCE between the Wyoming Counseling Association and the National Association of Social Worker-Wyoming Chapter.

Counselor and social worker professionals each serve community needs. By joining forces, we can provide a high-quality conference and network to expand our knowledge and work together across Wyoming. If you have any questions or concerns during this conference, please seek us out or stop by the registration table for assistance.

Conference Tips:

Attire: Most participants dress in casual “Wyoming” business attire. We recommend that you bring a light sweater or jacket as it is difficult to achieve room temperatures ideal for everyone!

Courtesy: Please...

- a. Turn off or silence phones and electronic devices during workshop sessions.
- b. Avoid wearing perfumes/colognes. They can cause respiratory issues with some attendees.
- c. Refrain from conversations and electronic device usage in sessions as a sign of respect for others.
- d. Choose a different workshop if all seats available seats are taken.
- e. Please complete an online evaluation for each workshop attended and for the overall conference. We really DO read and incorporate your suggestions for speakers and conference improvements!

Photo Disclaimer: Registrants to the conference understand that publicity photographs may be taken during the event and their image/photographic likeness may appear in photographs. Photos containing your image/likeness may be used for publicity or general information purposes including publication on the NASW Wyoming website, WCA website or within other publicity which may be seen by the general public.

Exhibit Hall Networking: Get connected! We’ve built ample time into the schedule for leisurely networking with sponsors, exhibitors and colleagues in The Butte. Learn about referral resources and resource providers relevant to social work and counseling in Wyoming.

Joint NASW/WCA Awards Presentation: Join us as we celebrate the embodiment of hope by recognizing the NASW Wyoming and WCA award recipients on Saturday.

Business Meetings: Join your professional organizational leaders for the NASW-WY and WCA business meetings on Thursday. Snacks are included as part of your registration so please join us to learn about the work your organizations are doing to support our professional community.

Student Get Together: All students are invited to participate in a student gathering at Paramount Ballroom on Friday from 7:00-9:00 organized by Mu Nu Tau Chapter of Chi Sigma Iota, the Counseling Honor Society chapter at the University of Wyoming.

Featured Sessions: In support of our partner organizations, we have featured sessions that offer specific training and opportunity to learn more about our Wyoming professional development organizations.

State Continuing Education Credits and NBCC Clock Hours:

Please note to receive credit for all of the CE contact hours being offered at the conference you must:

1. Attend at least 85% of the entire length of each plenary or workshop.
2. Sign the workshop roster. Should you need to request a verification of attendance at a later date; your request can only be honored if we can confirm your name is on the workshop roster! Please note there is a fee incurred if verification is needed following the conference.
3. Complete the CE Evaluation form online. Your feedback is shared with the board of directors to assist with improving the workshops offered and planning for future conferences. This is also how you receive your continuing education certificate.
4. Complete the form at the end of the program noting the sessions you attended (keep this for your own records) and calculate the number of hours you earned.
5. Fill-in the number of hours completed on your CE certificate received via email after submitting the online evaluation form.
6. Please visit the Registration table if you are interested in receiving UW graduate credit or PTSB credit.

Online Evaluation and Continuing Education Certificate: Conference evaluations are available this year online! Please take time to complete the online evaluations for the sessions attended and the full conference experience. At the end of the evaluation, you will be prompted to provide an email address. After submitting the evaluation, your Continuing Education Certificate will be sent via email to the email address provided. Be sure to keep this email, as you can reprint your CE form if needed later!

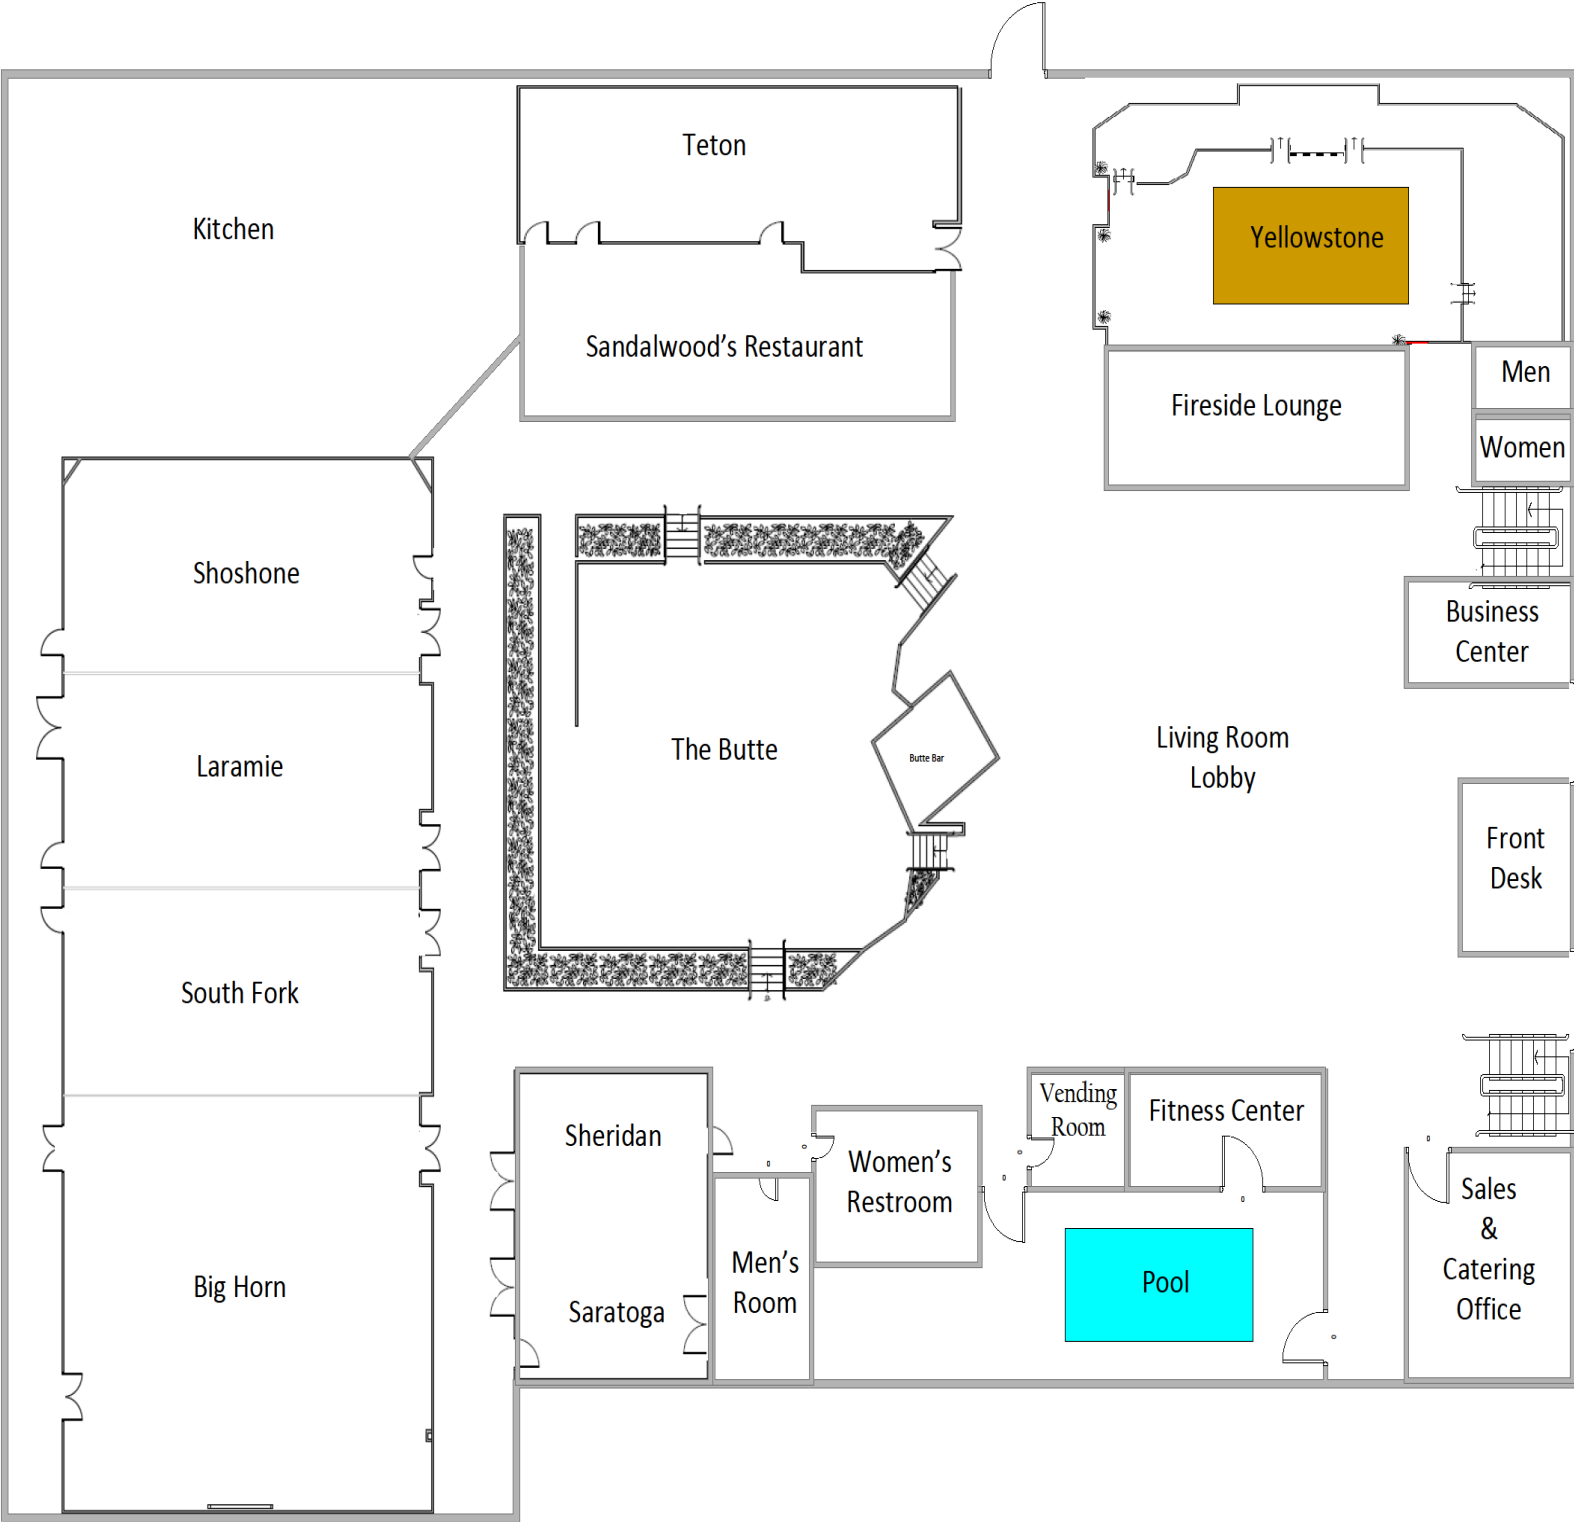

The online evaluations are linked on the WCA conference website. You can also access the form via the website or QR Code below:

Session Descriptions: Thursday, September 26, 2019

12:00-2:50

“A Deep Dive into Counseling Supervision in Rocky Mountain Communities”

Amanda DeDiego, PhD, NCC

Andrew Southerland, MS, PPC

Andrea McGrath, MA, LPC

Lay-nah Blue Morris-Howe, PhD, LPC

Laramie Room

Supervision is a critical aspect of counselor training and development. Especially in Rocky Mountain communities, supervision is a complex relationship including considerations of community need and ethical conduct. This session explores supervision theory, ethical problem solving, and considerations for supervisors working in rural communities.

“Sandplay: Healing with the Unconscious”

Rose Harriet, LPC, RPT-S, STR

Yellowstone Room

This seminar is a basic "how and why it works" introduction to Sandplay as developed by Dora Kalff. The creation of Sandplay trays allows conflicts to arise from the unconscious and then reorganize psychologically in a healthy way. Jungian philosophy, the tools, therapeutic setting, training, and case examples with children and adults, will be used to provide the participant with a broad view of how Sandplay is a transformative treatment modality.

“Principles and Best Practices of Clinical Supervision in Social Work”

Ronn Jeffrey, LMFT

Pat Boyer, LCSW, LMFT

Shoshone Room

An introduction to the principles and best practices of good clinical supervision in the field of social work. Case materials from both the presenters and participants will enhance the learning experience. Both presenters have many years of clinical supervision experience and hold the credential of approved supervisors from AAMFT.

5:00-6:00

“Zero Suicide Initiative: How a Hospital and Community Can Approach Suicide Prevention”

Joshua Spinney, MA, LPC

Laramie Room

A regional rural hospital and a community mental health agency have both been able to develop a suicide prevention model that has used no financial assistance to work collaboratively to prevent suicide in Park County. Statistics and data from nearly two years show how nearly 200 people have been prevented from falling through the "mental health cracks" of our medical system. A discussion and exploration into how collaboration of a community hospital, a community mental health organization, and community effort can be a backbone in developing a functional suicide prevention model without any additional financial assistance required from governmental organizations.

“Elder Orphans -- Aging without Family Support”

Janet de Vries, MS, LPC, NCC, MCC

Shoshone Room

More than 1 in 5 Americans older than 65 are — or are at risk of becoming — "elder orphans" — someone who is aging alone with no family available to address their caregiving needs. One study states that 23 percent of boomers will eventually be without family caretakers. Because women live longer than men, women are even more vulnerable. This presentation will identify concerns and share solutions brainstormed by individuals who participated in facilitated discussions on the subject.

“Matching Group Treatment Interventions to your Client's Readiness Level of Change”

Kristin Erickson, PhD, LIMHP, CPC (NE), NCC, ACS, BCB

Tonya Goodwin-Daly, PLADC

Yellowstone Room

Working with individuals in a pre-contemplation stage of readiness to change can be incredibly challenging. Come learn about one student’s journey creating and implementing a substance abuse group pre-treatment model she developed to specifically meet clients where they are at during this difficult pre-contemplation stage of readiness to change. Tips will be shared, along with successes, and lessons learned, for clinicians who might find this treatment model helpful for the clients they work with.

“Practical Ethics for Social Workers in Frontier Practice”

Kristin (Sween) Alcalá, MSW, LCSW

South Fork Room

This presentation includes a review of the social work code of ethics, rules, and statutes in Wyoming. Exploration of scope of practice and the importance of education to build on scope and competency will be explored. Further, the session will include discussion of professional identity for social workers and their roles, emphasizing wellness strategies in addition to ethical and legal professional obligations of confidentiality and appropriate disclosure. The presenter will offer practical tips for social workers navigating social media, legal involvement, and practice in a rural state.

Session Descriptions: Friday, September 27, 2019

8:15-12:00 Big Horn Room

Opening Remarks and Keynote Session:

Developmentally Appropriate Trauma Treatment:
Laying Your Ethical Foundation for Competency and Advocacy

Franc Hudspeth, PhD, NCC, LPC-S, ACS, RPh, RPT-S, CPC, DDP-1

Utilizing developmentally appropriate, neurobiologically-informed practices is not new; however, often models are utilized without regard to whether there is evidence to inform the use or understand the potential outcome. Also, a part of our codes of ethics, we all have guidelines for competency and advocacy. This session highlights the intersection of ethics, neuroscience, developmentally appropriate, evidence-informed practices, competency, advocacy, and accountability.

About the Presenter: Franc is an Associate Dean of Counseling at Southern New Hampshire University. He is Editor of the International Journal of Play Therapy and the Journal of Counselor Preparation and Supervision as well as an editorial board member for the Journal of Creativity in Mental Health and The Professional Counselor. He serves as President-Elect of the Association for Creativity in Counseling and as Chair of the Association for Play Therapy's Foundation Board of Directors.

He received his PhD, in Counselor Education & Supervision, from The University of Mississippi in 2009. He has been a Registered Pharmacist since 1989, a Mississippi Licensed Professional Counselor since 2004, an Arkansas Licensed Professional Counselor since 2015, Registered Play Therapist Supervisor, and a nationally Approved Clinical Supervisor since 2007. His writing and research interests include trauma's impact on brain development, psychopharmacology, neuroscience influences on counseling, and play therapy applications to attachment disorders.

12:00-1:00

Meet and Greet

Dr. Eleanor Downey, Director of University of Wyoming Division of Social Work
Featuring Presentation: “Accompanying: A Model for Leadership and Professional Mentoring”

Big Horn Room

Refreshments provided by UW Division of Social Work*

Not eligible for WY CE or NBCC Clock Hours*

1:00-1:30

“Trickster: How S/he Tricked the Patriarchy!”

Jamie Egolf, LCSW

Big Horn Room

Prior to modern trauma treatment, oppressed and traumatized women transformed their struggles: low status, forced silence, sexual and physical abuse (foot breaking and binding), denial of education, ownership of money and land. They even created a language (Nüshu) that only women could read—a thousand years ago.

1:30-2:50

“Trauma Treatment across the Lifespan: Neurobiologically-Informed, Developmentally Appropriate Child and Adolescent Treatment”

Franc Hudspeth, PhD, NCC, LPC-S, ACS, RPh, RPT-S, CPC, DDP-1

Laramie Room

Complex or developmental trauma, in children and adolescents, can be overt or covert and are typically ongoing/repetitive. As such complex/developmental trauma should be addressed, in stages, with neurobiologically-informed, developmentally appropriate models that include: (a) building on the safety and security of caregivers and community, (b) being developmentally sensitive, and (c) addressing affective-behavioral dysregulation.

“A Psycho-Educational Group Approach to Treating Clients with Serious Mental Illness”

Victor Ashear, PhD

South Fork Room

The workshop will present research on the role of the self in mental illness and recovery with implications for therapeutic interventions. The workshop will also explore the barriers to treating individuals with serious mental illness diagnoses as well as techniques for overcoming them. The workshop will highlight innovative approaches to both the process and the content that appear to be effective with this population. Finally it will address the importance of helping clients achieve a balance between illness acceptance and pursuing recovery goals and a meaningful life.

“Existential Catapults: Awareness, Self-Care, and Working through Difficult Transitions in Life”

Kristin Erickson, PhD, LIMHP, CPC (NE), NCC, ACS, BCB

Jose Aleman

Shoshone Room

The workshop will present research on the role of the self in mental illness and recovery with implications for therapeutic interventions. The workshop will also explore the barriers to treating individuals with serious mental illness diagnoses as well as techniques for overcoming them. The workshop will highlight innovative approaches to both the process and the content that appear to be effective with this population. Finally it will address the importance of helping clients achieve a balance between illness acceptance and pursuing recovery goals and a meaningful life.

“Narrative Therapy in Group Settings”

Shonya Neuman, MS, PPC

Frederick Bergh, MS, PPC, CAP

Yellowstone Room

After a brief introduction to the merits of Narrative Therapy, particularly in group work, activities and processing will be demonstrated with audience participation. This is an audience inclusive activity that aims to engage participation as a part of demonstrating the impact Narrative Therapy can have in group work.

3:00-4:30

“Trauma Treatment across the Lifespan: Neurobiologically-Informed Treatment for Adults”

Franc Hudspeth, PhD, NCC, LPC-S, ACS, RPh, RPT-S, CPC, DDP-1

Laramie Room

Complex trauma, in adults, can be overt or covert and are typically ongoing/repetitive. As such, complex trauma should be addressed in stages with neurobiologically-informed, culturally sensitive models that include: (a) building on the safety and security of family and community, (b) being culturally sensitive, and (c) addressing affective-behavioral dysregulation.

“User-Friendly Yoga and More -- Healing Trauma in Innovative Ways”

Dawn Sopron, LCSW, RYT-500, CYT-700

Yellowstone Room

I will present an overview of various cutting-edge mind-body therapies, including yoga, EMDR, Sensorimotor Psychotherapy, Somatic Experiencing, and Dynamic Attachment Re-patterning. Most require specific training and certification to integrate into your practice with clients; my goal is to stimulate a trauma-centered, mind-body framing of client problems, so you may then explore more by pursuing future professional development opportunities. However, the yoga techniques I will teach can be integrated right away, both for your own compassion fatigue prevention and to help clients regulate affect and experience more stability and integration.

“Incorporating Mindfulness & Resiliency Factors in the Trauma Informed Care Culture”

Jennie Miller, PhD

Shoshone Room

Trauma Informed Care focuses on the impact of trauma on individuals and systems along with focusing on how to develop strategies to reduce the risk of re-traumatization in the helping profession environment. Mindfulness and resiliency factors are two vital components to include in this paradigm. This presentation will explore how to incorporate and utilize practical strategies to enhance mindfulness and resiliency factors in the Trauma Informed Care setting.

4:40-5:30

“Trauma Treatment across the Lifespan: Ethical, Neurobiologically-Informed, Treatment Planning”

Franc Hudspeth, PhD, NCC, LPC-S, ACS, RPh, RPT-S, CPC, DDP-1

Laramie Room

Providing neurobiologically-informed, developmentally appropriate and/or culturally sensitive treatment requires a thoughtful treatment plan. Treatment planning models differ in your chosen theoretical philosophy, how the information you have gathered is prioritized and integrated, and ethical decision-making. This session presents a treatment planning model that incorporates assessment evidence, developmental sensitivity, neurobiologically-informed practice, and ethical treatment.

“The Journey Towards Purpose: Integrating Life Purpose into Career Counseling”

Kirk Thiemann, MS, PPC

Shoshone Room

Research indicates that having a sense of life purpose brings a multitude of health, social, career, and personal benefits. Career counseling needs to go beyond professional and academic considerations; career counseling presents an opportunity to address one's sense of life purpose which then is applied through career. The presentation describes an emerging model of life purpose development. This model of career counseling is holistic and can provide benefits to clients with trauma backgrounds.

“Becoming: How Past Events Shape Our Future Self”

Stacey Lane, MSW, LCSW, EMDR Certified

Yellowstone Room

Our personality, our life experiences, and attachment patterns are developed early in life. While no one escapes adversities in life, how we experience them and how we are taught to handle them has a significant impact on our current functioning and future behavior. This presentation will describe how past events shape our future self and treatments available for successful resolution of symptoms as a result of adverse life experiences.

Student Get Together

1609 Capitol Ave

7:00-9:00

All students welcome!

Organized by Mu Nu Tau Chapter of Chi Sigma Iota Counseling Honor Society

Session Descriptions: Saturday, September 28, 2019

8:00-9:20

“Upstream Suicide Prevention Methods for Young Adults and Higher Education”

Amanda Matthews, PCSW, MSW, BSW

Laramie Room

This workshop aims to showcase current upstream prevention methods and best practices for suicide screening and prevention for young adults and higher education institutions. We will showcase the initiatives that the UW Lifesavers coalition is heading as well as how they have partnered with the community to expand prevention efforts.

“Incorporating Creativity and Play-Based Counseling into a Comprehensive School Counseling Program”

Robert Paul Maddox II, PhD, LPC (MO), NCC

Shoshone Room

Advanced session*

School counselors often face challenges such as high caseloads, demands to fulfill multiple roles within schools, and limited resources, all while being called upon to address the academic, career, and social-emotional needs of all students. Because of this, many school counselors find themselves seeking developmentally appropriate strategies and interventions that can be implemented school-wide to meet the varying needs of students. This presentation provides participants with a review of the major components of a Comprehensive School Counseling Program (CSCP), along with an overview of how use creativity and a play-based counseling approach within a CSCP.

“Solution Focused Brief Therapy (SFBT)”

Stephen Finzo, PsyD

Yellowstone Room

This training will provide an overview of the establishment and development of SFBT, its uses for appropriate populations, and its skills and nuances for application. We will explore the tenets of the treatment as related to addressing the client's need in the present and with the focus on the future. We will explore the Needs and Change model addressing motivation, respectful curiosity, and the preferred future. We will determine and define interventions and skills readily available to the participant.

9:30-10:20

WY-ASERVIC Featured Session:

Spirituality and Religion in Professional Counseling: A Panel Discussion”

Andrew Southerland, MS, PPC

Andrea McGrath, MS, LPC

Laramie Room

This panel discussion will be hosted by members of the Wyoming chapter of ASERVIC (Association for Spiritual, Ethical and Religious Values in Counseling). During this presentation, panelist will discuss the different roles that spirituality and religion can play in the lives of clients and how counselors can incorporate this topic into their professional practice. Furthermore, attendees will have an opportunity to ask questions, share experiences, and discuss how spirituality and religion impact the counseling process.

WySCA Featured Session:

“School Counselors’ Role Supporting Students Living with Trauma”

April Petty, MS, PPC, NCC

Suzanne Scott, MACC, LPC, NBCT

RebeccaAnne Edelman, MA, MEd, NCC

Shoshone Room

School Counselors are in a unique position to not only help identify the adverse effects of trauma on learning and social/emotional development in students but also support the student so they can be successful in the classroom and the real world. This means supporting and educating the staff on trauma. This session will focus on the role school counselors play in a school environment when dealing with trauma and supporting learning in students while assisting staff to help avoid compassion fatigue. A qualitative study on the lived experiences of rural mental health counselors and school counselors in crisis response with clients and students who are a threat to themselves or others will also be explored.

“Legislative Advocacy in Behavioral Health: A Panel Discussion”

Moderator: Lance Goede, LPC, MHPLB Member

- Senator Tara Nethercott, Co-Chair Wyoming Judiciary Committee
- Representative Sue Wilson, Co-Chair Wyoming Labor & Health Committee
- Korin Schmidt, Director of the Department of Family Services
- Bob Lampert, Director of the Department of Corrections
- Tara Muir, JD, Lobbyist/Public Policy Director WCADVSA
- Andi Summerville, Executive Director/Lobbyist WAMHSAC
- Lindsay Simineo, LPC, Legislative Advocate Wyoming Counseling Association

Big Horn Room

This panel explores the role of clinicians in legislative advocacy. Topics include current issues in the legislature that could impact clients, state agencies, professions, licensure, education, voting rights, and criminal justice reform in Wyoming. Panelists include current members of state congress and community stakeholders.

10:30-11:50

“Mental Health Issues and Suicide Prevention in a County Jail”

Glenna Hansen, LPC, NCC

Laramie Room

Nationwide, the scarcity of community and hospital-based mental health care, has pushed many people with mental illnesses onto the streets. County jails frequently end up being the default providers of mental health care. Many jail and prison inmates, have diagnosable mental conditions. Along with the presence of mental disorders, a great range of stressors, unique to the jail population, and setting, lead to a high risk of suicide. This presentation aims to present the particular issues that present in county jail populations, and the efforts made at preventing suicide in this setting.

“Compassion Fatigue and Burnout: Coping with Acute Stress: Providers that Treat the Traumatized”

Rosemary Bartle, MS, LPC

Shoshone Room

The World Health Organization (WHO) has defined workplace burnout as a health threat, particularly for those who treat the traumatized. The bad news is, we already know this. The good news is, burnout is recognizable and treatable. In this session, learn the causes and symptoms of burnout and Compassion Fatigue or Secondary Traumatic Stress. Interventions covered will include restoring resilience and cognitive restructuring as well as creative approaches to managing burnout. Participants will receive handouts and materials lists to use themselves and/or with clients experiencing workplace burnout.

“Vicarious Trauma and Self-Interventions”

Stephen Finzo, PsyD

Yellowstone Room

This training is designed to build the "self-intervention" skills of the provider who is working with trauma survivors. While working with trauma survivors may be rewarding, vicarious trauma or "vicarious traumatizing" can be debilitating for the clinician. This course will provide tools to recognize distress and burnout, provide information about resilience and counter-transference, and help in developing a strategy for "self-intervention" enhancing a sense of well-being and self-care. Self-interventions will include exploration of physical and cognitive symptoms of vicarious trauma as related to building and healthy plan for taking care of personal needs and impacts.

12:45-2:15

“The Rules Have Changed”

Wyoming Mental Health Professions Licensing Board

Lance Goede, MS, LPC, NCC

Big Horn Room

The Mental Health Board has recently revised many rules that affect licensees and supervisors. The session will highlight some of the changes, help answer some of your questions and tell you how to be involved in the next rule revision process.
